NORDIC MARKETPLACE
SINCE 1921

2024
CATALOG

In 1974,

Julie Ingebretsen opened a little gift shop in a small storefront on East Lake Street, just next door to her grandfather's market. As educators & artists with an interest in rooting themselves in the rich histories of their immigrant families, she and her husband Craig began building a center for learning and sharing the craft, culture and traditions of Scandinavia. From that idea, a truly special community was born. 50 years later, we celebrate all who have helped to build what has become an extraordinary legacy, including you. Thank you for being a part of our family, we are so grateful.

In 1921, Karl (Charlie) Ingebretsen, opened a small corner market on East Lake Street in Minneapolis. At the time, the neighborhood was filled with Scandinavian immigrants like himself, many fleeing poverty in their home countries. His shop became a popular destination for new Americans to find the foods that reminded them of home, and remains that to this day under the stewardship of the Dahl family. In 1974, Charlie's granddaughter Julie opened our retail shop with a focus on deepening our understanding of Nordic culture & traditions. It was with that mission that Ingebretsen's became rooted as an institution. We are proud to call our original location home, surrounded by families from across the globe who are making a start in America, just as our families did four generations ago. We look forward to welcoming you!
